DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the positively recited "umbrella" must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Allen [U.S. Patent No. 4,624,276]. Allen (figures 1-11) teaches of an umbrella grip (10 or 75) having a central shaft (12); an elastic string (11 or 76) operatively protruding out from the grip and forming a loop (fig. 1 & fig. 10), the string being elastic (flexible strap as defined) and can be resiliently wound and engaged with a groove (14 or 78) circumferentially recessed in an outer surface of an extension wall (15 or 77) of the grip, the string may be fastened in the groove when not in use or to prevent from tangling. The grip (75) includes two inherent string holes {located at 79} and formed in the groove for the insertion of two end portions of the string, the string forming a loop portion extending outwardly from the grip and is fastened within the groove for a resilient tight fit as readily apparent to the examiner (fig. 11), the extension wall being formed as a rectangular shape.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Exley et al., [U.S. Patent No. 4,632,137] in view of Allen '276. Exley (figures 1-10) teaches of an umbrella grip (18) having a central shaft (16); a loop (24) operatively protruding out from the grip (fig. 3), the loop being engaged within a groove (18d) circumferentially recessed in an outer surface of an extension wall (20) of the grip, the loop may be fastened in the groove when not in use or to prevent from tangling with other articles. The grip (75) includes two holes (18a, 18b) and formed in the groove for the insertion of two end portions of the loop, the loop extending outwardly from the grip and is fastened within the groove for a tight fit as readily apparent to the examiner (fig. 7), the extension wall being formed as a cylindrical shape. Exley teaches applicant's inventive claimed structure as disclosed above, but does not show the loop as being made of an elastic or flexible material. However, Allen 276 is cited as an evidence reference to show that the use of a flexible loop on an umbrella handle was old and well known. As such, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the loop of Exley so as to utilize a flexible/elastic material as taught by Allen 276 because this arrangement would positively seat the loop within the groove thereby securely housing the loop when not intended for use.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed September 24, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. It is viewed that the cited prior art rejections adequately teach applicant's claimed inventive concept. Concerning the use of the terms "flexible" and "elastic", note the following: Webster's II New Riverside University Dictionary 1994 [page 487] cites the following terms as being synonyms of each other, "Flexible,

Elastic, Plastic, Resilient, Springy, Supple – core meaning: capable of withstanding stress without structural injury". Accordingly, the position is maintained that Allen teaches the use of a flexible/elastic member in combination with an umbrella grip.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
